Funeral of Thomas M. Locke—The Temperanc Excitement—Stock Board, &c. BALTIMORE, July 27, 1853.

BALTIMORE, July 27, 1853.

The funeral of the venerable Thomas M. Locke, President of the Fire Department, and also of the Mechanical Engine Company, although bereft of the music and glitter usually accompanying a firemen's procession, was one of the most chaste tributes, in perfect consonance with the character of the respected dead. The members of the Mechanical, numbering over one hundred, were all arrayed in deep mourning, with black kid gloves and vests, and seashes from their hats, on which was the word "Mechanical" in silver letters—their uniform and gentlemanly appearance attenting general admiration. A large number of the members of other companies were also in attendance, all in citizens dress, in accordance with the off-expressed wish of the deceased. The funeral cortege was very large, and the bells of all the attention of the court to the case of his client. After the termination of the court to the sate trial, they were advised by the United States to be ready to try the case again on the 15th of July. That day had come and passed, and for eleven days nothing had been said or done respecting the case. He desired to know now what was to be done in the case.

Mr. Fendall replied, saying that it was something new to him that the 15th of July, or any other day, had been fixed for the trial of the case.

el for Dr. George A. Gardiner, yesterday called the attention of the court to the case of his client refused to fix that day for the trial. He had not obtained any information relative to the commi The temperance indignation meeting to be held sion, but he was not aware whether the Govern this afternoon will doubtless be a small affair.

Our leading men take no part in the movement, mission returned the United States would be and the opinion of Mayor Hollins on any subject ready for trial, and would resist any motion for was mentioned, it was understood that by that day both sides were to get ready for trial. He had since then received a notice from the United law, or as Mayor of the city, he is as thoroughly States that they were now, and have been for some time passed, examining one-half the witnesses who were called on the trial; the depositions to be used in the civil cause. This fact disclosed that the witnesses for the United States are here, and the prosecution therefore was now ready for trial. He wished to know something definite with reference to the case-whether it was to be tried, and, if so, when. It was well known that the funds of Dr. Gardiner were locked up by the Government, that he had no money, and he was not able to bring witnesses here and keep them week after week. To allow the United States to $690...71\frac{1}{8}$ go on in this way, and put off the trial from time to 690...71 time, it would be as unjust as it was an unheard of time, it would be as unjust as it was an unheard of proceeding. It would be idle for the defendant to attempt to keep his witnesses with no money to pay them. If the United States do intend to try the case, let them say so; if they do not, let them do 703

when in New York he saw it stated in a letter from Washington that the case had been indefi-nitely postponed. If that disposition of it was the same as such a proceeding in legislative bodies, he would make no objection because it would be equal to entering a nolle prosequi; which really was the only proper course left the Government to pursue.

The Court said that he understood the position of the cose was this—that the Government was awaiting the return of the commission which had been sent out to Mexico. The return of that commission might reasonably be expected in a day or two. After its return time would of course day or two. After its return time would of course be given both sides to bring together their witnesses from the different parts of the United States.

Mr. Bradder said it was idle to expect the commission here—if they attempt to do the duty on which they had been sent to perform—by the first of August, or for considerable time to come. If the commission was not here by the first of August, the court well knew the counsel for Dr. Gardiner could not then try the case. The circuit court would meet in September to try those cases which were necessarily postponed by the attendance of himself and Mr. Carlisle at the trial of this case in March and April last. That court had excused them then, and could not be expected of this case in March and April last. That court had excused them then, and could not be expected to do so again; it could not be expected that the circuit court could adjourn over to suit their engagements elsewhere. Would this court, therefore, knowing these circumstances, compel Dr. Gardiner to go into a trial without the benefit of the counsel who had once tried and were familiar Would this court, there with the case. If the court allowed the case to be taken up at such a time, the present counsel of Dr. Gardiner would be obliged to abandon the case and allow the United States to get a verdict if it could. He therefore asked the court to order the case to be continued till the next term.

The boys and girls thus honored returned t their seats with proud steps and happy faces, while we could see on many a youthful counter nance the certain shade of disappointment. Bu if the system of premiums is to be continued-which we think of doubtful policy—they who re ceived none now must strive for the prizes which may be awarded in the future.

A large number of diplomas were distributed several cheerful songs were sung, and the company were dismissed with the benediction.

This morning, at ten o'clock, the premium will be distributed at the Smithsonian Institution, commencing at ten o'clock-there having been a postponement on Friday in consequence of the rain.
